Invitation to Salvation

Dear God,
I thank you for your mercy and grace because I could have been cut off in my sin. I believe with all my heart that Jesus died for my sins, was buried, and rose again for my justification.
You said in your word if I believe in my heart and confess with my mouth that Jesus is Lord, I will be saved. I confess and believe today that Jesus died for my sins and I confess Him as my Lord and Savior and I choose to turn away from the sins of my past to a renewed life in Jesus.
Thank you, Father, for forgiving me and giving me eternal life. I am now your child!
I now ask that you fill me with your Holy Spirit so I may live for you in a powerful way. I receive the Holy Spirit by faith in your word that says, if I ask I would receive. Thank you!
In JESUS' Name, Amen.

THE RESURRECTION OF JESUS CHRIST:

A DAY OF CELEBRATION, IDENTIFICATION AND ACTIVATION

“Why seek ye the living among the dead? He is not here, but is risen.....” (Luke 24:5b-6a). These were the words of the angels of God proclaiming to Mary Magdalene and other women who came to the tomb where Jesus was laid. These words describe two very powerful truths: One, Jesus, who they saw die on the cross, was in fact not dead. And two, he had indeed rose from the dead just like he said he would.

As Christians we ought to celebrate daily that our LORD and Savior, Jesus Christ, is indeed alive forevermore. He defeated sin, death, hell and the grave by obediently dying on the cross and on the third day morning, rising from the dead and returning to his Father in heaven. The apostle Paul said, “For I delivered unto you first of all that Christ died for our sins according to the scriptures; and that he was buried and that he rose again on the third day according to the scriptures (1 Corinthians 15: 3, 4). We celebrate because we have been redeemed by the blood of the lamb, (Jesus), and because we can now live victoriously in this present world. We celebrate because our risen LORD is on the right hand of the Father, ever living to make intercession for us. And lastly, we celebrate because our once crucified savior is the LORD of lords, King of kings and Lion of the tribe of Judah.

This is also a day of identification. As believers in Christ, we must identify with Jesus' death because without death there is no resurrection. Jesus died so that you and I can have life and that life more abundantly. By the same token, if we are going to give life to others we must die to our own selfishness, self-reliance, impure motives, aspirations, and greed. Jesus, said “The man who loves his life will lose it, while the man who hates his life will keep it for eternal life” (John 12: 25 NIV).

Jesus Christ paid an extremely high price for our redemption because of his love for you and me. In turn, we ought to live not for ourselves but for the one who died for us. “For Christ's love compels us because we are convinced that one died for all and therefore all died. And he died for all that those who live should no longer live for themselves but for him who died for them and was raised again (2 Corinthians 5: 14, 15).

This is a day of activation as well. By activation I mean it is time for the redeemed of the LORD to say so and more importantly, DO SO. As ambassadors or representatives of Christ in this world, it is time for us to be about our Father's business and preach the gospel to every person we possibly can. Not just by our words but by our actions as well.

After Jesus' resurrection he met privately with his disciples to instruct and commissioned them for their assignment. After he spoke to them the Bible says he was taken up into heaven and sat down on the right hand of the Father. Do you know what the disciples did after that? They went forth and preached everywhere; the LORD working with them and confirming the word with signs following (Mark 16: 20). We will and we shall do the same!!

As we enter this spring season let us do so with hope and great expectation of greater things to come. Remember, we walk by faith and not by sight. The glory is increasing! Pray it and say it!

In His Service,

Apostle David M. Young Sr.

The weather has now begun to break and I thank God for the opportunity to get outside and stretch my legs. Aerobic activities such as riding your bike, speed walking, running and even swimming can help you to stay trim and healthy. Remember to keep Christ at the helm of your workouts and you will discover the best workout partner you ever had. So have fun and pop in your headphones and enjoy a sermon or some praise music while you are training. 1st Corinthians 10:31 says that whether therefore ye eat, or drink or whatever you do, do all to the glory of God.

"Bring on the tomatoes"

Here's a healthy fact to remember, Did you know that tomatoes contain a chemical called lycopene which has potent properties that will reduce the risk of developing colon and prostate cancer? Well enjoy this beautiful weather, be safe and stay focused on Jesus.

VOICE OF THE MARTYR

Remember them that are in bonds, as bound with them; and them which suffer adversity, as being yourselves also in the body.—Hebrews 13:3

The founder of the Voice of the Martyrs, Pastor Richard Wurmbrand, loved people. He and his wife, Sabina, had a great passion to lead others to Christ.

We have written about his courage as he stood alone among more than 1,000 leaders to denounce the control of Romanian communism. The communists had closed Sunday schools and oppressed the church. Pastor Wurmbrand resisted the communists' control of the church and went underground. He held services for youth attending his church in front of the lion's den at the Bucharest Zoo to prepare them for battle with the world. Pastor Wurmbrand led his little Lutheran congregation, composed of many Jewish converts, to the Bucharest train station to toss Russian Gospels into the windows of passing trains filled with invading Russian soldiers. The soldiers kept the Gospels. For many such acts of aggressive love, he and his wife both went to prison.

When Richard and Sabina began the work of VOM in October 1967 in America, some might think they would have been changed by living in an open, wealthy nation where everything could come easy for famous, gifted people. But their love, their burden — whether for helping those persecuted abroad or right next door — remained the same.

Pastor Wurmbrand woke up early in the morning with long lists of names of people. One by one, he would pray for them. He and Sabina fasted one day a week.

One night there was a great crash. Richard, now in his 70s, had fallen on the bathroom floor and fractured his skull. The next morning in his hospital room, he began to pull on his clothes to leave. The frantic nurses came in to tell him he could not get up. He said, "How can I sit in bed with only a little pain in my head when I am supposed to speak in Berlin where the people suffer much more than I do?" At the time, Berlin, Germany, was a walled-off city surrounded by the East German communist military. He flew to Germany.

After coming to America, Pastor Wurmbrand never owned a house or a car. Being older, he took driving lessons but was kindly told by the instructor that it would be better to save his money. On one of their trips flying overseas, he and Sabina would approach an airline counter with about 12 suitcases of clothes they had purchased at a used clothing store, clothes to be carried into communist Eastern Europe for persecuted Christians. The stunned airline agents crumbled under their heartfelt appeal and let them take the clothes.

When Richard and Sabina passed from earth, the house they lived in was sold and the funds used for international ministry. They had moved to an eternal house.

After Pastor Wurmbrand's funeral, his son, Michael Wurmbrand, held a special dinner. A young woman told her story. She had worked for a florist and delivered flowers to Richard and Sabina's home in Southern California. Sabina graciously invited her inside. Richard told her an old story of the Emperor of Japan who visited a garden to see only one flower, a very special flower. Then Pastor Wurmbrand looked at her and said, "And you are God's special flower. This is why you came today. God loves you. You are special to Him." She came to Christ. Her life was changed forever.

Whether he was speaking to his torturer in a Romanian prison or to a flower delivery girl in America, Pastor Wurmbrand knew that our highest calling is to be witnesses of the love and grace of God.

His legacy continues on around the world.

KEEP A PRAYER IN YOUR HEART

A day that starts without a prayer
Is like an empty shell,
And a day that ends without a prayer
Cannot be ended well;
For when your heart turns Heavenward
You find a sweet release,
And you understand the meaning
Of "His mercies never cease".
When life brings pain and sorrow
Which you felt too weak to bear,
There's strength in God's abiding love
And in the power of prayer. Cont.

So never start a day unless
There's a prayer within your heart,
Don't make a firm decision
Until you've prayed about it,
For prayer is like a golden gift--
And you just can't do without it...
And though at times you feel as if
Your prayer has not been heard,
Remember, God is listening
And He hears your every word.
He may not always give the things
You wished and hoped He would
But in His love and wisdom
He does all things for your good.
